CALL FOR PROPOSALS:
APPROACHES TO ADVANCE GENDER EQUITY FROM AROUND THE GLOBE

The Robert Wood Johnson Foundation (RWJF)’s Evidence for Action (E4A) Program and Global Ideas for U.S. Solutions team are releasing a special Call for Proposals (CFP): Approaches to Advance Gender Equity From Around the Globe. Through this CFP we seek to learn from programs, policies, and practices ("interventions") implemented in other countries to advance gender equity and improve determinants of health, and understand the extent to which these approaches may be adapted for U.S. populations.

WHO SHOULD APPLY
• Researchers, program implementors, organizers, and professionals in public and private sectors.
• Partnerships between organizations based within and outside of the U.S.
• Interest in projects led by organizations based in the country where the intervention is being implemented.
• All health and non-health disciplines welcome.

EVALUATION CRITERIA
• Rigor of proposed study design.
• Strength of evidence supporting the intervention.
• Relevance to improving gender equity.
• Plausibility of the intervention’s impact on health.
• Actionability of results.
• Qualifications of research team.

GRANTS
• Total of up to $1M USD awarded.
• Individual award amounts range from $100,000 to $250,000 USD.
• Grant durations up to 30 months.

APPLY
• Full proposals due August 26, 2020 at 3pm EDT (UTC -4).

PLEASE NOTE
Studies may be conducted in any language, but proposals and deliverables must be submitted in English and all grant administration will be conducted in English.
